The original Gay Mont house, built in the late eighteenth century was a rectangular, two-story frame structure with a gable roof and two exterior end chimneys. Architecturally the house belonged to an interesting group of Rappahannock valley plantation houses that includes Belle Grove and Nanzatico in King George County, and the Gray House and the Brockenbrough House in nearby Port Royal. A common feature in the design of these houses is an enclosed stair between the walls of the center hall and an adjacent chamber, and a wide elliptical arch with paneled soffit dividing the hall. These houses also feature handsome paneled chimney pieces, often with crosseted frames and flanking pilasters.

Gay Mont was enlarged in 1819 with the addition of one-story stuccoed brick wings on either side and a one-story colonnade of stuccoed brick Tuscan columns across the east front. In 1834 an interesting one-story ocatagonal music room was erected on the house's west front. The house was further enlarged in 1839 by the placement of an octagonal ended library on the end of the north wing, and a matching office on the end of the south wing. The interior of the house was embellished in the early nineteenth century with a handsome set of French scenic wallpaper, "Scenes from the Bay of Naples" by Dufour.

In June, 1959, a fire destroyed the frame center part of the house This center section has and the octagonal music room, and gutted the wings. since been reconstructed on the original Flemish bond brick foundations, incorporating the undamaged Flemish bond exterior chimneys. It is speculated that these wing chimneys with their exposed twisted flues were built thusly because it was intended that the wings have steeper roofs. The original low rooflines were repeated in the reconstruction, however. The octagonal music room was not rebuilt, although its foundation was kept to By fortuitous cirprovide the base for a terrace overlooking the garden. cumstance a set of "Bay of Naples" paper, removed years ago from the walls of another "Gay Mont" near Staunton, Virginia, was secured and hung in the room Reproductions of the paper that was formerly papered with similar scenes. are being used to decorate the hall.

Immediately to the south of the house is an early brick out-building, probably the original kitchen. As first constructed sometime in the eighteenth century, this outbuilding was a frame structure with a massive Flemish bond chimney. This chimney was later incorporated into a brick structure laid in American bond. No other early outbuildings remain on the property.

The location of Gay Mont is accentuated by its prominent placement on a high ridge overlooking the Rappahannock Valley. The immediate setting of the house is enhanced by the survival, virtually intact, of the landscaping and gardens laid out in the early nineteenth century. To the rear of the house remain the formal gardens, laid out in the French manner in the 1820's, and, although some of the original flower beds have been eradicated, the overall design is retained. In front of the house terraces drop down the ridge towards the original drive way, on the second level of which stands "the Beauty Spot," an observation spot for the area. Beside Gay Mont is situated on $318\frac{1}{2}$ acres, all of which has been included with this report because the owners are presently engaged in negotiations with the Commonwealth of Virginia to place these acres under a permanent open-space, historic easement. Once this has been accomplished the rural setting at Gay Mont will be perpetually protected.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Phoenix-like, Gay Mont has risen from the ashes of the destructive fire of June, 1959, to stand again on its prominent site overlooking the Rappahannock Valley. Although the original center section was destroyed and the wings gutted in the holocaust, the present owners have painstakingly rebuilt the house, restoring as much of its former appearance as possible. Great care was taken to retain as much of the surviving fabric of the building as possible so, with the regretable exception of the fine interior woodwork and detailing of the old house, the present Gay Mont is a commendable copy.

Gay Mont was built in the latter part of the eighteenth century by John Hipkins (circa 1749-1804), a merchant of Port Royal, on land he had assembled between 1786 and 1799. At his death in 1804 Hipkins left this property, then called "Rose Hill," to his only grandson, John Hipkins Bernard, then a boy of twelve. The estate was managed by Hipkins' widow who enlarged the original 976 acres to 1,417 and ran the plantation until her grandson reached the age of twenty-one in 1813. During Bernard's ownership the place was to reach its zenith as a plantation.

In 1816 Bernard married Jane Gay Robertson (1795-1852), daughter of William and Elizabeth Bolling Robertson and changed the name of his seat to "Gay Mont" in honor of his wife. Two years later he departed for a tour of Europe that was to influence so greatly the future appearance of Gay Mont. During his travels in France he was much impressed with French landscaping and architecture and took extensive notes as well as collecting seeds and plants that were sent back to Gay Mont. Upon his return in 1819 Bernard laid out the formal gardens to the rear of the house, placing symmetrical walkways running between beds of shrubs and flowers. At the same time he enlarged the acreage of the plantation by 700 acres and added the two stuccoed, brick wings and the colonnade of Tuscan columns to the main house.

At Bernard's death in 1858 three of his children purchased the house and 445 acres from the other heirs. One of these, Helen Struan Bernard, acquired the homeplace in 1865 after her marriage to her cousin, Philip L. Robb, grandson of John Hipkins Bernard's sister. Gay Mont remained in the hands of the Robb heirs until it was sold in 1958. After the diastrous fire in 1959 it was brought back into the family by Mr. and Mrs. James S. Patton, Mrs. Patton being a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip L. Robb.

Although severly damaged by fire, Gay Mont has been gradually brought back to its former appearance by its present owners. The grounds and gardens have been rehabilitated, the house has been rebuilt along its
